The Plan Administrator
Birdair, Inc. Savings Plan and Trust

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Birdair, Inc. Savings Plan and Trust (the Plan) as of and for the year ended October 31, 2015, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered the Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of issuing our report on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control.

We were engaged to perform a DOL limited-scope audit of those financial statements as permitted by 29 CFR 2520.103-8 of the Department of Labor's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974. Our audit did not include all of the procedures required by auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and did not include a consideration of internal control relating to the information summarized in Note 3 to those financial statements. Because of the significance of the information that we did not audit, we were unable to, and did not, express an opinion on those financial statements.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraphs and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and, therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, as discussed below, we identified a certain deficiency in internal control that we consider to be a significant deficiency.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency or combination of deficiencies in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the Plan's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected on a timely basis. We did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. We consider the following a significant deficiency:

Financial accounting and external reporting

Although information is provided by the third party administrator for the Plan Administrator to use in monitoring operations of the Plan, management requests us to draft the Plan's annual audited financial statements and footnote disclosures. While it is typical of an employee benefit plan of the Plan's size to receive auditor guidance on the proper application of generally accepted accounting principles, an independent auditor cannot be part of an employee benefit plan's system of internal control. Accordingly, where practical, the Plan should consider additional education or other resources to ensure a complete reporting process is achieved. We also understand that it may not be cost effective for management to comply fully with the concepts of this recommendation now or in the future.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Plan Administrator and management of the Plan. It is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
