To the Board of Directors and Plan Administrator
Heath Consultants, Inc. PS & Retirement Plan

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Heath Consultants, Inc. PS & Retirement Plan (the "Plan") as of and for the year ended December 31, 2015, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered the Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of issuing our report on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control.

We were engaged to perform a Department of Labor ("DOL") limited-scope audit of those financial statements as permitted by 29 CFR 2520.103-8 of the DOL's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974. Our audit did not include all of the procedures required by auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and did not include a consideration of internal control relating to the information summarized in Note D to those financial statements. Because of the significance of the information that we did not audit, we were unable to, and did not, express an opinion on those financial statements.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraphs and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and, therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, as discussed below, we identified certain deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be important to the Plan's operating efficiency.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the Plan's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis. We did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses.

During our audit, we also became aware of deficiencies in internal control other than significant deficiencies or material weaknesses, and the following other matters that are opportunities for strengthening internal controls and operating efficiency:

Contribution Remittances

Conditions: During our test work, we noted one remittance that occurred 21 days after the pay date that is outside the established pattern of less than seven days. This untimely remittal occurred due to a data entry error on the file uploaded to the trustee related to Norton's division code.

Recommendation: We recommend a secondary review of the remittal file to ensure all information is accurate prior to submitting to the trustee for processing.

Hardship Withdrawals

Conditions: During our test work, we noted two participants who received funds greater than the financial need.

Recommendation: We recommend the Plan administrator review the supporting documentation closely to compare the financial need to the requested amount to ensure that funds disbursed or equal to or less than the financial need.

Record Retention

Conditions: During our test work, we noted that one employee's human resources file and one participant's distribution request form could not be located.

Recommendation: We recommend that all distribution forms be promptly filed in the employee's personnel records. We also recommend that all personnel files be secured in a designated area in the Human Resources department.

We will review the status of these comments during our next audit engagement. We have already these comments and suggestions with various Plan personnel, and we will be pleased to discuss them in further detail at your convenience, to perform any additional study of these matters, or to assist you in implementing the recommendations.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and Plan Administrator of Heath Consultants, Inc. PS & Retirement Plan, and others within the Plan, and is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than these specified parties.
