MILLER COOPER & Co., Ltd

ACCOUNTANTS AND CONSULTANTS

Trustee of the Plan
United Dental Partners, LLC 401(k) Profit Sharing Plan & Trust
Chicago, Illinois

Our audit was performed in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, except that we did not perform any of the normal auditing procedures on asset information certified or provided by the custodian under section 2520.103-8 of the United States Department of Labor's Rules and Regulations. In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of the United Dental Partners, LLC 401(k) Profit Sharing Plan & Trust as of and for the year ended December 31, 2018, we considered the Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraph and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be significant deficiencies or material weaknesses and, therefore, there can be no assurance that all deficiencies, significant deficiencies, or material weaknesses have been identified. However, as discussed below, we identified certain deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be significant deficiencies.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct misstatements on a timely basis. A deficiency in design exists when (a) a control necessary to meet the control objective is missing, or (b) an existing control is not properly designed so that, even if the control operates as designed, the control objective would not be met. A deficiency in operation exists when a properly designed control does not operate as designed or when the person performing the control does not possess the necessary authority or competence to perform the control effectively.

A material weakness is a deficiency, or combination of deficiencies, in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected on a timely basis

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. We consider the following control deficiencies to be significant deficiencies:

Untimely Remittance of Employee Deferrals and Loan Repayments

Based on the Plan's internally imposed deadline of the 7th business day following the day which withholdings are made, we noted multiple instances during the period from January 1, 2018 to December 31, 2018 where the employee deferral contributions and loan repayments were remitted to the Plan's custodian late. This totaled $144,355 of participant contributions and $979 of loan repayments. We also noted employee deferral contributions and loan repayments that were remitted late in 2017 totaling $23,669. These 2017 and 2018 remittances were self-corrected outside the DOL's Voluntary Fiduciary Correction (VFC) Program. We also noted $238 of withholdings that were not remitted to the Plan during 2016 and 2017. We suggest the Plan Sponsor fund these remittances as soon as possible and correct through the VFC Program.

The DOL continues to focus on the timeliness of remittances of participant contributions and loan repayments in contributory employee benefit plans. Participant contributions and loan repayments are required to be deposited into the Plan as soon as they can reasonably be segregated from an employer's general assets. This means that 401(k) withholdings from each payroll need to be deposited within days after each withholding occurs, similar to the timing for payroll tax deposits. The DOL has finalized regulations that establish a safe harbor time period of seven business days from the payroll date contributions are withheld for small plans, meaning those not requiring an audit. However, no such safe harbor has been established for large plans, and the DOL has internally adopted a presumption that employers administering larger 401(k) plans should have the ability to remit employee contributions more timely than the seven business day safe harbor time period established for small plans.

Failure to remit or untimely remittance of participant contributions and loan repayments may constitute a prohibited transaction (either a use of plan assets for benefit of the employer or a prohibited extension of credit). As a Plan Sponsor, you are required to disclose on the Form 5500 whether you deposited the participant contributions and loan repayments in a timely manner. In addition, you may be required to pay an excise tax to the IRS for failing to remit these contributions and loan repayments in a timely manner.

Insufficient Documentation in Personnel Files

During the audit we noted that the Company was unable to locate certain important personnel-related documents including support for hire dates and termination dates. We recommend personnel files be maintained for every employee and include documentation such as employment offer letters, form I-9, resignation letters, etc., as plan related administrative forms often serve as the only support for employee participation in the Plan. The personnel files should be reviewed for completeness and all missing documentation should be replaced immediately.

Additionally, we noted during our audit procedures that the Company could not locate important documents, such as approved offer letters, salary change forms, or 401(k) deferral waiver forms, which should be maintained in employee personnel files. We recommend that the Plan Sponsor maintain written authorizations for all personnel and compensation changes. These records provide the support and back-up required upon request or inspection of regulatory agencies such as the DOL, Internal Revenue Service ("IRS"), and others.

Participant Elections

During testing, we noted instances where individuals did not have their 401(k) withholding elections and loan repayment amounts set up in the payroll system timely in accordance with the plan document. These individuals missed out on approximately $4,000 of deferrals due to the late entry. All change elections are available through the John Hancock Deferral Change report. We recommend the Company perform a timely review of John Hancock reports and all payroll records to ensure all participants receive their elected deferrals in accordance with plan provisions. Additionally, we suggest that the Company discuss review procedures and correction process with their ERISA counsel.

Excess Contributions

Based upon discussions with the Plan's third-party administrator (TPA), certain instances were noted during 2017 and 2018 in which employee contributions exceeded the maximum allowable limit by the IRS. These excess contributions have not been distributed to the impacted participants as of the report date and we strongly suggest the Plan Sponsor work with the TPA to correct these as soon as administratively possible. Further, we suggest that the Plan Sponsor work with the TPA to develop a policy to ensure contributions are not made in excess of the statutory limits.

Loan Repayments

During our audit, we identified one instance during in which loan repayment deductions were not set up to be paid through payroll. As a result, the loan was not being repaid in accordance with the terms of the loan agreement until the error was identified in 2019. We recommend improvement in the control procedures regarding the monitoring of loans so that loans are properly identified, accurate repayment information is entered into the payroll system, and outstanding loan balances are reconciled to the amortization schedules per the loan agreements on a timely basis.

Following are descriptions of other identified control deficiencies that we determined did not constitute significant deficiencies or material weaknesses:

Trustee Minutes

There are no formal minutes maintained for actions taken by the Plan's Trustee of the Plan. With the significant number of investment failures within benefit plans, the complexity of investment alternatives, the complexity of the tax laws covering the qualifications of the Plan, and fiduciary responsibilities of the Plan Sponsor, it is important that the Plan Sponsor adequately document the due diligence its personnel exercise over the operations of the Plan, including documentation of the considerations made when determining an investment policy and selecting investment alternatives, as well as documentation of the continued monitoring of investment performance against the Plan's objectives.

Reconciliation Procedures

We noted during our audit procedures that minimal reconciliation is performed between the Plan Sponsor's records and the Plan's trust statements. Specifically, we noted that participant deferrals from payroll are not reconciled to the amounts certified by the Plan's trust statements. A timely reconciliation process will ensure that amounts recorded in the Plan's trust statements agree to the records of the Plan Sponsor. We recommend that the Plan Sponsor implement a timely reconciliation process to ensure accurate records.

Benefit Waiver Forms

We noted that enrollment forms include an option to elect to not participate in the plan. However, these forms are not completed and signed by eligible employees who elect to not participate in the Plan. While other controls are currently in place, we recommend that eligible employees who elect not to participate in the Plan be required to complete a Company enrollment form and choose a deferral percent of zero. A copy of this form should be placed in the respective employee's personnel file. This will help provide written documentation that supports the fact that all eligible participants were given the opportunity to participate in the Plan.

Observations and Recommendations

This letter also includes comments and suggestions with respect to matters that came to our attention in connection with our audit of the financial statements. These items are offered as constructive suggestions to be considered as part of the ongoing process of modifying and improving the Plan's practices and procedures.

Reasonableness of Loan Interest Rate

We noted the Plan's Loan Policy defines the loan interest rate as a rate of return commensurate with the prevailing market rate. Loan interest rates shall be comparable to interest rates charged by commercial lenders in a similar transaction. The rates should not be the best that are available in the market. We recommend the Plan Sponsor discuss the reasonableness of the loan interest rate with the Plan's third party administrator to determine if a revision to the Plan's Loan Policy is necessary.

Technology and Data Security Risk Assessment and Management

Technology continues to transform business. But technology is not only changing business, it is changing who and what has access, custody and control over information. Therefore, employee benefit plans need to evolve in the ways that they manage technology and data security. While there is no way to prevent all data breaches, phishing scams or other risks, Plan management can mitigate the Plan's risks with a thorough understanding of data security, privacy, and protection of its information technology. We recommend Plan management consider developing or enhancing its data security risk management plan.

In developing or enhancing the plan, Plan management may want to consider the following (which is not an exhaustive list):

- Risk assessment
- A written policy
- Effective screenings of employees, vendors, third party administrators, and business partners
- Insurance
- Red flags
- Training of employees
- Plan for responding to a breach notification
- Carefully integrating new technologies
- New legislation and regulation which may impact the Plan or the Plan Sponsor
