Plan Management
ExecOnline, Inc. 401(k) Plan
Washington, D.C.

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of ExecOnline, Inc. 401(k) Plan (the Plan) as of and for the year ended December 31, 2019, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered the Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of issuing our report on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control.

We were engaged to perform a DOL limited-scope audit of those financial statements as permitted by 29 CFR 2520.103-8 of the Department of Labor's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974. Our audit did not include all of the procedures required by auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and did not include a consideration of internal control relating to the information prepared and certified to by Ascensus as an agent for Ascensus Trust Company (Ascensus) the trustee, in accordance with DOL Regulation 2520.103-5. Because of the significance of the information that we did not audit, we were unable to, and did not, express an opinion on those financial statements.

However, during our audit, we became aware of deficiencies in internal control other than significant deficiencies and material weaknesses and other matters that are opportunities to strengthen your internal control and improve the efficiency of your operations. Our comments and suggestions regarding those matters are summarized below. This letter does not affect our report on the financial statements dated October 9, 2020.

Review of SOC 1 Reports

The Plan Sponsor has outsourced recordkeeping for the Plan to third-party service providers, The Vanguard Group (Vanguard), and Ascensus, via a subcontractor arrangement with Vanguard. Vanguard and Ascensus have SOC 1 reports available, but the Plan Sponsor currently does not timely obtain and review copies of these reports as part of their fiduciary oversight of the Plan.

The SOC 1 reports for Vanguard and Ascensus include detailed descriptions of the controls in place at the service providers and an assessment by an independent auditor of whether the controls are suitably designed, have been placed in operation and are operating effectively. These reports also detail user controls that must be in place at the Plan Sponsor in order for controls at the service providers to operate effectively.

The Plan Sponsor should obtain copies of the SOC 1 reports from the service providers for each period one is prepared, at the time the SOC 1 reports are first available, and review the reports as part of their normal fiduciary oversight of the Plan. Management should review the control objectives and any exceptions noted. An additional step you should include in your review of these SOC 1 reports is to document your review of the Plan Sponsor/Participant Control Considerations outlined in the SOC 1 reports and document procedures performed to show the user controls listed in the SOC 1 reports have been implemented at the Plan Sponsor.

Plan Governance

A Plan administrator has certain responsibilities as a fiduciary under ERISA. Examples of fiduciary acts include selection of fiduciaries or delegation of fiduciary responsibility, plan document interpretation, determination of plan eligibility, selection of service providers, and determination and approval of expenses paid from plan assets. Fiduciaries are required to act solely in the interest of plan participants and beneficiaries and to act with the care, skill, prudence and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing. They also have the duty to follow Plan documents and avoid prohibited transactions.

We recommend that the organization take appropriate measures to mitigate risk by establishing additional oversight and governance of the 401(k) plan. Appropriate benefit plan governance should be structured by use of an oversight committee. Generally a committee should be established to oversee a plan's administration and operation, investments and investment performance, expenses paid by the plan, audit and internal review process, vendor and service provider selection and oversight and legal compliance (including corrections to participants' accounts). The selection of committee members should be based on expertise, level in organization and level of benefits responsibility. It is very important that the committee members accept their appointment in writing and clarify their roles and responsibilities. The committee should have a written charter indicating the purpose of the committee, the scope of its authority and specific procedures followed by the committee. We recommend that there be written documentation of all meetings and decisions made by the committee.

Documentation of Plan Expenses/Fee Disclosures

The Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) requires plan fiduciaries, when selecting and monitoring service providers and plan investments, to act prudently and solely in the interest of the Plan's participants and beneficiaries. Plan fiduciaries must ensure that arrangements with their service providers are "reasonable" and that only "reasonable" compensation is paid for services. Beginning July 1, 2012, service providers began providing fee disclosures to plan sponsors, which are required by regulations issued under Section 408(b)(2) of ERISA (and which are thus commonly known as "408(b)(2) Notices"). The regulations require that plan administrators have written agreements supporting fees over $1,000 paid to service providers for any type of service to the plan. The agreements must disclose the nature of the fees and how the fees are determined, and includes both direct and indirect (hidden) fees. Certain disclosures are also required to be made to plan participants annually and quarterly.

The Department of Labor expects plan fiduciaries to carefully review the 408(b)(2) Notices they receive and then make informed, affirmative decisions based on them. These disclosures are intended to give plan fiduciaries sufficient information concerning the services provided by the plan's vendors, and the fees charged for those services, to determine whether the services are necessary and appropriate for the operation of the plan, and whether the arrangement and fees are reasonable. If these disclosures are not provided, or if the services are not appropriate or the fees are unreasonable, the relationship will be a "prohibited transaction" under ERISA. Any plan fiduciary who permits the plan to engage in such an arrangement will have committed a breach of fiduciary duty. We have seen situations where the DOL deemed that the plan sponsor's review process was not adequate to support the reasonableness of the fees, and as a result, they required the plan sponsor to reimburse the plan for the investment fees.

During our audit, we inquired of Plan management regarding the “408(b)(2) Notices” received and documentation of the process completed to review the information and reach a conclusion regarding “reasonableness” of the fees. There is little documentation to support the review and conclusions by Plan management. We recommend Plan management document this process, including any outside consultation with independent investment advisors, in formal minutes at least annually to better support Plan management’s fulfillment of their fiduciary duties. We also recommend management maintain a fee disclosure file with the signed service agreements, participant disclosures, and fee review documentation, and the minutes documenting your conclusions as to the reasonableness of fees.

Timing of contributions

Department of Labor Regulation 2510.3-102 requires that amounts that participants have withheld from their wages by an Employer be contributed to the Plan on the earliest date on which such contributions can reasonably be segregated from the Employer’s general assets. In any event, employee salary deferrals must be segregated from Employer assets no later than the 15th business day of the month following the month in which they would otherwise have been payable to the participant in cash. If an Employer does not deposit deferrals into the plan as soon as they can be reasonably segregated, they are considered as holding plan assets. This results in a prohibited transaction (a non-exempt extension of credit between the plan and a party in interest) which will trigger an excise tax of 15% of the amount of the lost earnings on the salary deferral contributions which were not deposited to the trust in a timely manner.

We reviewed the timeliness of contribution remittances to the Trust for the year ended December 31, 2019 and noted there were employee salary deferrals which were not segregated from the general assets of the Employer and deposited to the trust in a consistent timeframe from the date of deferral to the date of remittance to the Plan. If the DOL were to review the remittances, they could conclude that some of these remittances are delinquent.

We recommend that the Plan administrator ensure that there are procedures in place, which enable participant contributions to be remitted to the Plan as soon as possible following the payroll check date, and monitor timeliness of the employee contribution remittances on an on-going basis. In the event that the Plan does identify late contributions that require corrective action, we recommend management ensure there are procedures in place for review of any remittance of lost earnings prior to deposit into the Plan and allocation to participant accounts to ensure any corrective action is accurate and complete.

Review and Reconciliation of Records

During our audit inquiries of management, we noted there are reviews of certain participant level activity throughout the year; however, there is no documentation to support that these reviews were completed or that the reviews included reconciliation of investment activity to recordkeeping activity. We recommend that Plan management establish policies and procedures to maintain documentation that Plan’s custodial statements and participant activity reports are being reviewed and reconciled with management files on a periodic basis. This process is important to document the oversight of the Plan and minimize the risk to the organization as a Plan Sponsor and fiduciary.

The organization has contracted with Ascensus, via an administrative agreement with Vanguard, to provide significant administrative services and transactional processing for the Plan. Furthermore, the Plan uses Vanguard for investment custodial services. We believe these parties are reputable, high-quality providers and have no reason to believe significant systematic weaknesses or errors are likely. However, the Plan administrator is ultimately responsible to ensure the Plan is operated consistent with its provisions and applicable codes and regulations and that all transactions are reconciled; accordingly, we recommend that you implement procedures to periodically review the plan activity and reports to identify any issues that may otherwise go undetected. Examples of such procedures may include:

- Review the annual census, including reconciliation of gross wages and contributions to year-end payroll records; it is important that the census is determined by management to be complete and accurate before being provided to external service providers for annual nondiscrimination testing and audit purposes.
- Prepare a reconciliation of employee and Employer contributions between the payroll system and the custodial / Plan records. This should be done on either a pay period, monthly or quarterly basis and will help ensure contributions are being properly deposited into the Plan's trust and allocated to participant accounts timely and accurately.
- Periodically review and recalculate a sample of employee and Employer contributions calculated within payroll to verify contributions being funded are made in accordance with Plan document provisions, including use of correct eligible compensation, participants' current deferral elections and the correct Employer contribution formula.
- Review distribution and rollover reports to ensure transactions were consistent with Plan provisions and activity appears reasonable.
- Review outstanding participant loans to ensure payments are being properly withheld and applied. Also, review for loan defaults or deemed distributions so they can be properly reported.
- Scan or review participant account statements to identify any issues such as improper allocation of contributions, cash-out distributions, unrecognizable participant, or other unusual activity.
- Review fees charged to participants' accounts for consistency with service agreements and fee disclosures provided to participants.
- Reconciliation of participants' account totals per recordkeeping reports to total Plan assets; these reconciliations should be performed for Ascensus.
- Review outstanding benefit payment checks to determine a follow-up process is in place to ensure benefit payments are ultimately received and cashed by the participant.

We would be happy to discuss these suggestions with you in additional detail at any time.

We will review the status of these comments during our next audit engagement. We have already discussed these comments and suggestions with various Plan personnel, and we will be pleased to discuss them in further detail at your convenience, to perform any additional study of these matters, or to assist you in implementing the recommendations.
