To the Plan Trustee and Plan Management and the Leonard Aluminum Utility Buildings LLC Employees' Retirement Plan
Mount Airy, NC

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Leonard Aluminum Utility Buildings LLC Employees' Retirement Plan as of and for the year ended December 31, 2023, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered Leonard Aluminum Utility Buildings LLC Employees' Retirement Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of Leonard Aluminum Utility Buildings LLC Employees' Retirement Plan's internal control.

Management has determined it is permissible in the circumstances and has elected to have the audit of the Plan's financial statements performed in accordance with ERISA Section 103(a)(3)(C) pursuant to 29 CFR 2520.103-8 of the DOL's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under ERISA. Therefore, as permitted by ERISA Section 103(a)(3)(C), the audit need not extend to any statements of information related to assets held for investment of the Plan (investment information) by a bank or similar institution or insurance carrier that is regulated, supervised, and subject to periodic examination by a state or federal agency, provided that the statements or information regarding assets so held are prepared and certified to by the bank or similar institution or insurance carrier in accordance with 29 CFR 2520.103-5 of the DOL's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under ERISA (qualified institution).

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraph and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and, therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, as discussed below, we identified certain deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be significant deficiencies.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control over financial reporting, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the plan's financial statements will not be prevented or detected and corrected on a timely basis. A reasonable possibility exists when the likelihood of an event occurring is either reasonably possible or probable as defined as follows:

- Reasonably possible. The chance of the future event or events occurring is more than remote but less than likely.
- Probable. The future event or events are likely to occur.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control over financial reporting that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. We consider the following deficiencies in the plan's internal control to be significant deficiencies:

Timely Remittance of Participant Contributions

During our audit, we noted there were variations in the time elapsed between the payroll date and the remittance date for contributions withheld during the year. Some contributions were remitted the same day as payroll, whereas some were remitted as late as 15 business days after the payroll date. The Department of Labor currently requires that remittances to be made "as soon as administratively possible" after the payroll date. Failure to remit participant contributions to the Plan in a timely manner results in prohibited transactions which must be separately reported to the DOL and may result in lost earnings for the Plan and penalties to the Plan Sponsor. We recommend that Plan management review the procedures involved in remittance of participant contributions to the Plan and institute the necessary controls to ensure participant contributions are remitted timely. We also recommend the Plan correct all untimely remittances.

Plan Operational Errors Identified

Eligible Compensation: During our audit, we noted that the amount used for calculating employee deferrals is not consistent with the plan document definition of eligible and excludable wages. HSA employer contributions and vehicle allowances were excluded from the calculation when the plan document states these are eligible wages. Furthermore, severance compensation was included in the calculation when the plan document states these are not eligible. Compliance with the plan document is critical under Department of Labor regulations and we strongly suggest that this situation be rectified as soon as possible. We therefore recommend that employee deferral calculations either be performed with the correct eligible wages as outlined in the plan document or the plan document should be amended to properly exclude HSA employer contributions and vehicles allowances.

Participant and Payroll Information: During our audit, we noted one participant should have received deferrals as of their deferral date based on the participant elections. However, they were entered into the Plan with a lag time greater than 1 month. Since the process of updating deferral information is performed by the Plan Sponsor, we recommend a secondary review of all employee deferral and eligibility changes be performed to ensure all changes are reflected and to significantly reduce the chance of errors. We recommend a reconciliation be performed at year-end between the information shown on the W-3, the census data submitted to the Plan's recordkeeper by the Plan Sponsor for compliance testing and the Plan Recordkeeper's certified information to ensure accuracy.

Employer Matching Contributions: During our audit procedures, we found that the employer matching contributions were not calculated within the payroll system consistently for all participants contributing to the Plan in accordance with the Plan document. We understand management will correct the error by making additional contributions to the Plan for participants that did not receive their matching contributions. We recommend that management develop and execute policies and procedures to ensure proper calculation of employer matching contributions. To the extent feasible, the procedures should include a review of the calculations by someone other than the individual performing the calculations.

Documentation for hardship Withdrawals: During our audit we noted that the Plan Sponsor did not have any supporting documentation for one hardship distribution. Per discussions with the Plan Administrator and management, no further information for the withdrawal is obtainable. Following the enactment of the SECURE 2.0 Act in December 2022, the Plan administrator may now rely on a certification by the participant and evidence of the self-certification should be retained in the Plan records, however, no such self-certification was requested of or provided by the participant prior to disbursement of the hardship withdrawal. Failure to obtain and maintain the proper records substantiating hardship distributions could require correction under the Employee Plans Compliance Resolution System (EPCRS). We recommend the Plan Sponsor consult with an ERISA attorney regarding this matter.

With the complexity of the tax laws covering the qualifications of the Plan and recent lawsuits against Plan Sponsors, it is important that the Plan Sponsor adequately perform and document their due diligence over operations of the Plan.

During our audit, we also identified certain matters involving internal control and other operational matters, other than significant deficiencies or material weakness, that are presented for your consideration. Our comments and recommendations noted below are intended to improve the Plan's internal control or result in other operating efficiencies.

Administration of Plan Distributions

While gaining an understanding of the Plan's internal control over Plan distributions, we noted that plan management's understanding of their responsibility did not align with those noted in the third-party administrator's service agreement, which specifically states what is the Plan Sponsor's responsibility and what is the third-party service provider's responsibility. We noted that Plan management may have an over-reliance on the third-party service provider, assuming all controls needed are performed by the third-party service provider when in fact such controls are specifically excluded from the third-party service provider's service agreement and ultimately the responsibility of Plan management. We recommend Plan management get a better understanding of the entire control process related to Plan distributions, the services their third-party administrator are contractually obligated to perform, and Plan management's role and responsibilities in this control process. Furthermore, Plan management should be monitoring those services provided by the third-party service provider to ensure the integrity of the provider to act within the terms of the agreement.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of the Plan Trustee, Plan management, and others within the organization, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Sincerely,
