April 11, 2025

To the Plan Administrator of Terryberry Company 401(k) Plan:

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Terryberry Company 401(k) Plan (the “Plan”), an employee benefit plan subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA), as of and for the year ended June 30, 2024, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered Terryberry Company 401(k) Plan’s internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of issuing our report on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan’s internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan’s internal control.

We were engaged to perform an ERISA Section 103(a)(3)(C) audit of those financial statements as permitted by 29 CFR 2520.103-8 of the Department of Labor’s Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974. As permitted by ERISA Section 103(a)(3)(C), our audit did not extend to any statements or information related to assets held for investment of the Plan (investment information) by Fidelity Management Trust Company that prepared and certified the statements or information regarding assets so held in accordance with 29 CFR 2520.103-5. Our audit also did not include a consideration of internal control relating to the investment information.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraphs and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and, therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, as discussed below, we identified certain deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be significant deficiencies.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency or a combination of deficiencies in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the Plan’s financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis. We did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. We consider the following deficiencies in Terryberry Company 401(k) Plan’s internal control to be significant deficiencies.

During the plan year ended June 30, 2024, there was a discrepancy between the amount of participant contributions that should have been treated as Roth contributions and the amount that should have been treated as traditional 401(k) pre-tax contributions. The contributions were treated properly for payroll purposes and the total participant contributions remitted were correct, but when management remitted the contributions to Fidelity, there were some that should have been coded as Roth contributions that were coded as traditional 401(k) pre-tax contributions. To correct the error, the miscoded contributions along with the respective earnings on these contributions will be transferred to the correct Roth accounts.

As you are no doubt aware, employee benefit plans are subject to unique accounting and disclosure requirements. As your auditors, we are now required to specifically consider whether plan personnel have the necessary knowledge to apply generally accepted accounting principles in recording financial transactions and preparing financial statements for the Plan. While we can recommend adjusting journal entries and prepare draft financial statements as part of our audit, we are prohibited from acting as your internal control. Your reliance on us for the completeness of the disclosures in the notes to the financial statements is considered to be a significant deficiency according to AU Section 325. We understand that you may have considered the cost of internally accomplishing this control objective to be cost prohibitive but none-the-less are required to bring the significant deficiency to your attention.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of management, the Administrative Committee, and others within the Plan, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Thank you for your outstanding cooperation during the audit.

Very truly yours,

Monroe, Sweeris & Tromp PLC

Our audit also did not include a consideration of internal control relating to the investment information.
