To the Plan Administrator and Management
HyAxiom, Inc. 401(k) Plan:

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of HyAxiom, Inc. 401(k) Plan (the Plan) as of and for the year ended December 31, 2024, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAS), we considered the Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control.

We were engaged to perform an ERISA Section 103(a)(3)(C) audit, pursuant to 29 CFR 2520.103.8 of the Department of Labor's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under ERISA. Our audit did not include all of the procedures required by GAAS and did not include a consideration of internal control relating to the information summarized in Note 3 to those financial statements.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described above and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, as discussed below, we identified a deficiency in internal control that we consider to be a significant deficiency.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis. We did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. We consider the following deficiencies in the Plan's internal control to be a significant deficiency:

Timely Remittance of Employee Contributions:
Department of Labor (DOL) regulations require an employer to segregate employee deferrals from its general assets as soon as practicable, but in no event more than 15 business days following the end of the month in which amounts were contributed by employees or withheld from their wages.

This issue has become a hot topic of the DOL in recent years. In a world where direct deposit of employee wages is commonplace, the DOL seems to have taken the position that “as soon as practicable” is often much sooner than by the 15th business day of the month following the withholding. The DOL has indicated that, “the date when participant contributions reasonably can be segregated from the employer’s general assets usually will be earlier than the maximum time period for pension plans in the regulation. Thus, when contributions reasonably can be segregated from the employer’s general assets in a shorter time period, delay in forwarding the contributions, even a delay that does not exceed the maximum time period under the regulation, may cause a breach of fiduciary duty under title I of ERISA that may be corrected under the Voluntary Fiduciary Correction Program (VFCP).” In practice the DOL has typically reviewed past remittance history of an employer and concluded that the earliest remittance date within the year (or past years) establishes a benchmark for when the employer could reasonably segregate the amounts from their general assets.

According to the DOL regulation, failure to remit employee contributions to the Plan in a timely basis constitutes a loan of funds from the Plan to Ability Partners, which is classified as a “prohibited transaction” and results in an excise tax imposed on the Company. The excise tax is normally calculated in a similar manner as interest is calculated on a traditional loan. Additionally, the prohibited transaction is required to be disclosed in a supplemental schedule to the Plan’s financial statements and to Form 5500.

During our audit, we noted that the Plan Administrator remitted employee deferrals on the same day as the payroll date, demonstrating the ability to remit deferrals on the same day that payroll is paid. We noted one instance in which employee deferrals were remitted eight days after the payroll pay date. Since the Plan has demonstrated the ability to remit deferrals on the same day that payroll is paid, the DOL may determine that beyond this results in failure to remit in a timely matter. Failure to remit in a timely manner is a prohibited transaction and may result in significant penalties.

We recommend the Company review its policy and procedures related to remitting employee elective deferrals to the Plan to determine a consistent remittance schedule that the Company is able to adhere to each pay period.

Employer Contributions:
During our audit procedures, we noted that the Plan sponsor did not properly remit employer contribution (profit sharing) amounts for two employees who were eligible during the Plan year, causing these participants to not receive an employer profit sharing contribution for the Plan year.

We recommend the Plan Sponsor develop and execute policies and procedures to ensure the proper calculation of employer profit sharing contributions and that these calculations be reviewed by someone other than the individual performing the calculation. We recommend the Plan Sponsor work with the third-party administrator to correct the issue using the Department of Labor’s Voluntary Fiduciary Program calculator and fund the employer match with any necessary interest to the participant.

Plan Compensation:
During review of the Plan document, we noted that plan compensation is defined as W-2 wages. During our audit procedures, we noted that the Plan sponsor calculates the employer profit sharing match contribution based on W-2 wages including the pay codes Group Term Life Insurance (GTL) and Health Rebate which is inconsistent with eligible compensation per the Plan document.

We recommend that the Plan sponsor reviews the definition of plan compensation to determine if employer profit sharing contributions are proper. Corrective action should be taken to ensure contributions are calculated on the proper plan compensation. Additionally, the definition of plan compensation should be reviewed in conjunction with the Plan sponsor's payroll system to ensure all other compensation codes are properly included/excluded based on the definition of plan compensation per the plan document.

Participant Contributions: Set-up of Withholding Percentages/Amount:

During our audit, it was noted that for two employees, their elected deferral percentage per the Empower website, was incorrectly entered into Paycom. This led to the employee contributing less than they elected, which could expose the Plan Sponsor to make necessary corrective actions for the plan to remain in compliance with regulations. This may also include corrective contributions on behalf of the participant.

We recommend that management review all participant deferral elections per the Plan's reports provided by Empower Trust Company, LLC (Empower) and what is actually being withheld and remitted per the payroll records to determine the accuracy and completeness of the participants' deferral elections. We also recommend management discuss this matter with their legal counsel to determine proper corrective action, if any.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of management, Plan Administrator, and others within the Plan, and is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than these specified parties.
