To the Investment Committee and Plan Administrator of Thermal Concepts, LLC 401(k) Plan

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Thermal Concepts, LLC 401(k) Plan (the "Plan") as of and for the year ended December 31, 2024, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAS"), we considered the Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control.

We were engaged to perform an Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA") Section 103(a)(3)(C) audit, pursuant to 29 CFR 2520.103.8 of the Department of Labor's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under ERISA. Our audit did not include all of the procedures required by GAAS and did not include a consideration of internal control relating to the information summarized in Note 2 to those financial statements.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described above and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be Material Weaknesses or Significant Deficiencies and therefore, Material Weaknesses or Significant Deficiencies may exist that were not identified.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

We identify two (2) deficiencies in internal controls that we consider to be a material weaknesses: 1) late remittance of participant contributions, and 2) improper use of forfeitures to pay lost earnings.

Material Weaknesses

Late Remittances of Participant Contributions

During fiscal years 2024, 2023 and 2022, participant contributions totaling approximately $509,000, $506,000 and $190,000, respectively, were not remitted timely to the Plan.

The Department of Labor (“DOL”) requires that participant contributions be remitted to the Plan on the earliest date on which they can be reasonably segregated from the Plan’s general assets. Failure to remit such contributions to the Plan in a timely manner results in a prohibited transaction which must be separately reported to the DOL.

We recommend the Plan Sponsor review the procedures involved in remittance of participant contributions to the Plan and implement controls to ensure that such contributions are remitted to the Plan in a timely manner, in compliance with DOL requirements. The Plan expects to correct the late remittances identified in the fiscal year 2025 by remitting lost earnings on the late participant contributions and any applicable excise tax to the Plan, if any.

Misuse of Forfeitures to Pay Lost Earnings

During December 2024, the Plan's forfeitures accounts was utilized to pay lost earnings associated with late remittances related to the 2023 fiscal year.

Failure to identify and appropriately restrict the use of forfeiture balances increases the risk of noncompliance with regulatory requirements and may result in adverse tax consequences, additional reporting requirements, and potential penalties for the Plan and Plan Sponsor.

We recommend that management enhance internal control and oversight related to the use of Plan forfeiture balances. This may include providing additional staff training on ERISA and IRS requirements regarding permissible uses of plan assets (including forfeitures), implementing a review process for transactions involving forfeiture accounts, and consulting with qualified advisors prior to utilizing forfeiture assets for any purpose other than those specifically permitted by the Plan document and DOL regulatory requirements.

Additionally, we recommend that the Plan Sponsor consult with experienced ERISA counsel to determine the appropriate corrective actions for the improper use of forfeitures to pay lost earnings. Engaging ERISA counsel will help ensure that the correction method fully complies with applicable laws, regulations, and the terms of the Plan document.

To the Investment Committee and Plan Administrator of Thermal Concepts, LLC 401(k) Plan

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Thermal Concepts, LLC 401(k) Plan (the "Plan") as of and for the year ended December 31, 2024, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAS"), we considered the Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control.

We were engaged to perform an Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA") Section 103(a)(3)(C) audit, pursuant to 29 CFR 2520.103.8 of the Department of Labor's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under ERISA. Our audit did not include all of the procedures required by GAAS and did not include a consideration of internal control relating to the information summarized in Note 2 to those financial statements.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described above and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be Material Weaknesses or Significant Deficiencies and therefore, Material Weaknesses or Significant Deficiencies may exist that were not identified.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

We identify two (2) deficiencies in internal controls that we consider to be a material weaknesses: 1) late remittance of participant contributions, and 2) improper use of forfeitures to pay lost earnings.

Failure to remit such contributions to the Plan in a timely manner results in a prohibited transaction which must be separately reported to the DOL.

We recommend the Plan Sponsor review the procedures involved in remittance of participant contributions to the Plan and implement controls to ensure that such contributions are remitted to the Plan in a timely manner, in compliance with DOL requirements. The Plan expects to correct the late remittances identified in the fiscal year 2025 by remitting lost earnings on the late participant contributions and any applicable excise tax to the Plan, if any.

Misuse of Forfeitures to Pay Lost Earnings

During December 2024, the Plan's forfeitures accounts was utilized to pay lost earnings associated with late remittances related to the 2023 fiscal year.

Failure to identify and appropriately restrict the use of forfeiture balances increases the risk of noncompliance with regulatory requirements and may result in adverse tax consequences, additional reporting requirements, and potential penalties for the Plan and Plan Sponsor.

This may include providing additional staff training on ERISA and IRS requirements regarding permissible uses of plan assets (including forfeitures), implementing a review process for transactions involving forfeiture accounts, and consulting with qualified advisors prior to utilizing forfeiture assets for any purpose other than those specifically permitted by the Plan document and DOL regulatory requirements.

Additionally, we recommend that the Plan Sponsor consult with experienced ERISA counsel to determine the appropriate corrective actions for the improper use of forfeitures to pay lost earnings. Engaging ERISA counsel will help ensure that the correction method fully complies with applicable laws, regulations, and the terms of the Plan document.
