Reasonable Cause for Late Filing

This return is being filed late due to reasonable cause and we hope that any associated penalties can be waived. The plan and payroll terminated at the end of 2022. The 2022 return was not marked as final as the plan balances were not distributed until 2023.

For 2023, we started using a PEO (Professional Employer Organization) named "JustWorks". After being notified of the missing 2023 filing we did some research and found out the following facts:

1. Justworks started our company on a new plan as of 1/1/2023 and has been filing under that plan since. Justworks is telling us that they did not do anything with the old plan and that was the job of our old plan administrator.
2. We contacted our old plan administrator who has filed all previous years of our plan since inception (on time); who is telling us that since we are using a new administrator for the new plan; he doesn't think it is his responsibility to file for the old plan.
3. So while we thought we were working with professional organizations, it appears nobody feels it was their responsibility to complete the filing. We relied on professionals to keep us compliant and we were never even alerted until just now of this delinquent filing.
4. We first became aware of this delinquency on January 9, 2026 and are taking immediate steps to file the paperwork.

We do not expect this to happen again as we will make sure to be on top of this additional filing each year.
