To Management and the Retirement Plan Committee
RL Hudson 401(k) & PS Plan
Tulsa, Oklahoma

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of RL Hudson 401(k) & PS Plan as of and for the year ended December 31, 2025, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered RL Hudson 401(k) & PS Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of RL Hudson 401(k) & PS Plan's internal control.

Management has determined it is permissible in the circumstances and has elected to have the audit of the Plan's financial statements performed in accordance with ERISA Section 103(a)(3)(C) pursuant to 29 CFR 2520.103-8 of the DOL's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under ERISA. Therefore, as permitted by ERISA Section 103(a)(3)(C), the audit need not extend to any statements of information related to assets held for investment of the Plan (investment information) by a bank or similar institution or insurance carrier that is regulated, supervised, and subject to periodic examination by a state or federal agency, provided that the statements or information regarding assets so held are prepared and certified to by the bank or similar institution or insurance carrier in accordance with 29 CFR 2520.103-5 of the DOL's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under ERISA (qualified institution).

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent or detect and correct misstatements on a timely basis.

We are required to consider relevant plan provisions that affect the risk of material misstatement at the relevant assertion level when designing and performing audit procedures. When audit work performed results in the identification of items that are not in accordance with specified criteria, such as plan provisions as set forth in the plan instrument, we are required as the auditor to evaluate whether the matter is a reportable finding. Reportable findings are matters that are one or more of the following:

- a. An identified instance of noncompliance or suspected noncompliance with laws or regulations.
- b. A finding arising from the audit that is, in the auditor's professional judgment, significant and relevant to those charged with governance regarding their responsibility to oversee the financial reporting process.
- c. An indication of deficiencies in internal control identified during the audit that have not been communicated to management by other parties and that, in the auditor's professional judgment, are of sufficient importance to merit management's attention.

A reportable finding may be a material weakness, a significant deficiency, or a control deficiency defined as follows:

A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control over financial reporting, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the plan's financial statements will not be prevented or detected and corrected on a timely basis. A reasonable possibility exists when the likelihood of an event occurring is either reasonably possible or probable as defined as follows:

- Reasonably possible. The chance of the future event or events occurring is more than remote but less than likely.
- Probable. The future event or events are likely to occur.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control over financial reporting that is less severe than a material weakness yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

A control deficiency is a deficiency, or combination of deficiencies, in internal control that does not rise to the level of a material weakness or significant deficiency but is of sufficient importance to merit management's attention.

We consider the following reportable finding in the plan's internal control to be a significant deficiency:

Internal Control over the Preparation of Financial Statements

The Plan does not have an internal control system designed to provide for the preparation of the financial statements and related financial statement disclosures being audited. As auditors, we were requested to draft the financial statements and accompanying notes to the financial statements. Although this circumstance is not unusual for a Plan of your size, the preparation of financial statements as a part of the audit engagement may result in financial statements and related information included in financial statement disclosures not being available for management purposes as timely as it would be if prepared by Plan personnel. It is the responsibility of management and those charged with governance to determine whether to accept the risk associated with this condition because of cost or other considerations.

We consider the following reportable finding in the plan's internal control to be a control deficiency:

Compensation

During the audit, we noted inconsistencies in the application of the Plan document provisions relating to the identification of eligible and ineligible compensation for purposes of calculating employee deferrals, safe harbor matching contributions, and the related annual true-up for one payroll period related to Fringe Benefits. As a result, participants did not have deferrals withheld from those earnings, corresponding safe harbor matching contributions were not made for that payroll period or on the annual match true-up. Additionally, we identified a manually issued payroll check for compensation relating to a missed PTO day that did not have employee deferrals withheld, resulting in compensation being paid outside of the normal payroll process without retirement plan withholding being applied. Collectively, these items indicate that controls surrounding the identification and treatment of eligible compensation for plan purposes were not operating effectively and resulted in both underpayments and overpayments of participant contributions and related matching contributions during the 2025 plan year.

While these errors were not material, we recommend that the Plan's management review their calculation of eligible compensation and periodically "spot-check" the calculation to ensure the proper amount of compensation is being used and deferrals made. We also recommend management consult with an ERISA specialist to determine any corrective action needed for the current and prior years. Not following the terms of the Plan document could result in a loss of the tax status of the Plan.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraphs and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be considered reportable findings, including material weaknesses, significant deficiencies, or control deficiencies, and therefore, reportable findings in these categories may exist that were not identified.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of management, the Retirement Plan Committee, and others within the organization and is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than these specified parties.
