COMMUNICATION OF SIGNIFICANT DEFICIENCY

To the Administrative Committee of the
Access Point Consulting 401(k) Profit Sharing Plan

Except as discussed in the following paragraph, in planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Access Point Consulting 401(k) Profit Sharing Plan (the "Plan"), an employee benefit plan subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA), as of and for the year ended December 31, 2025, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered Access Point Consulting 401(k) Profit Sharing Plan's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances for the purpose of issuing our report on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Plan's internal control.

We were engaged to perform an ERISA Section 103(a)(3)(C) audit of those financial statements as permitted by 29 CFR 2520.103-8 of the Department of Labor's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974. As permitted by ERISA Section 103(a)(3)(C), our audit did not extend to any statements or information related to assets held for investment of the Plan (investment information) by Ascensus LLC, and Capital Bank and Trust Company that prepared and certified the statements or information regarding assets so held in accordance with 29 CFR 2520.103-5. Our audit also did not include a consideration of internal control relating to the investment information.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the preceding paragraphs and was not designed to identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses or significant deficiencies and, therefore, material weaknesses or significant deficiencies may exist that were not identified. However, as discussed below, we identified a deficiency in internal control that we consider to be a significant deficiency.

A deficiency in internal control exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent, or detect and correct, misstatements on a timely basis. A material weakness is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the Plan's financial statements will not be prevented, or detected and corrected, on a timely basis. We did not identify any deficiencies in internal control that we consider to be material weaknesses.

A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance. We consider the following deficiency in Access Point Consulting 401(k) profit Sharing Plan's internal control to be a significant deficiency:

Preparation of Annual Financial Statements and Footnote Disclosure

Currently, the Plan relies on the outside auditor to prepare the year-end financial statements and footnote disclosures required under Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP) and the Department of Labor's Rules and Regulations for Reporting and Disclosure under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA). Current standards on internal controls over reporting include the Plan's controls over the preparation of the year-end financial statements and related notes in accordance with GAAP and ERISA. Those standards dictate that the audit firm cannot be part of management's internal control design and operation. In practice, the Plan provides a trial balance and the audit firm prepares the financial statements, note disclosures and certain year-end adjustments. This condition may indicate that the Plan does not have sufficient controls or expertise over the auditor's preparation of the financial statements or footnote disclosures. Audit standards require us to communicate this control deficiency to management. We do not consider this to be a material weakness.

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of Plan management, and others within the Plan, and is not intended to be, and should not be, used by anyone other than these specified parties.
